Robert says goodbye to all that!

ROBERT Evans of Kenfig Hill recently endured the pain of having his long locks shaved - to help raise money for KPC Youth!

Members of the Pyle-based young people's charity looked on in awe as Robert's locks were

Robert's son, Jamie, is a former member of KPC, and has recently joined the Army, passing out on October 16.

Alison Mawby, the project manager at KPC, said: "We would like to thank Robert for being brave enough to do this on behalf of KPC

'We also thank Belinda and Jeremy of Maples Hair Salon, Pyle, for supporting the event, and hairdresser Gemma, who did such a professional job with the head shave."

She went on: "KPC would also like to thank everyone who supported Robert by sponsoring him, and helping to raise more than £150 for KPC Youth.

"Best wishes from everyone at KPC to Jamie in his Army career," Alison added.

Welcome back...

THE Bridgend Town Council has welcomed its two newest members.

Haydn Morgan won the vacant seat in the Morfa Ward for Labour in a by-election, after the resignation of Lib-Dem Anita Langdon.

Claire Lewis was coopted as a Conservative member for the Newcastle Ward.

Coun Morgan was previously a councillor but lost his seat in the elections last year. He was the council's deputy mayor at that time and would have taken over as mayor in the May if he had retained his seat. Mrs Lewis is the wife of the current mayor Mervyn Lewis.

Coun Morgan thanked the meeting for its wel-come and said it was hard to fight your way back after being rejected by the electors.

World descends on Porthcawl for couple's diamond occasion

A PORTHCAWL couple have just celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary.

Avril and David Questle celebrated with a family party attended by 35 relatives from all over the world at the Atlantic Hotel.

Avril is now 85, and David is 89.

The couple met when they both worked for the Foreign Service in Frankfurt in Germany

They were married in 1949 in the British Consulate in the city

Their oldest daughter Penny was born in Germany and the couple lived on the Rhine until 1954, when David resigned so that the family could live in the UK.

Their second daughte Jane was born in

'Beware these scams' council warns residents

RESIDENTS in Bridgend county borough are being warned about two scams involving unlicensed charity clothing collections and bogus offers of a council tax refund.

Deputy Leader David

You can check if a licence has been granted by contacting the council's Licensing section on 01656 643643."

The second scam has been reported by a number of other local authorities. It involves fraudsters telephoning people and telling them that they are eligible for a council tax refund before asking for private bank account details.

The fraudsters, who claim to be from the local council, but are believed to be calling from abroad, then use the details to raid bank accounts.

"A genuine telephone call from Bridgend County Borough Council will not ask you to pass on your private bank account details over the phone," Coun Sage added:

"These scams can be stopped simply by remaining alert and using common sense.

"Never give out any personal details to some one who calls you - if you are entitled to a council tax refund, the council will send you a letter showing how much you are owed and offering the option of either deducting the amount from your next council tax bill, or providing a refund.

Charity's call for volunteers to champion climate change

THE Porthcawl-based environmental charity, Sustainable Wales (SW), is seeking volunteers to act as 'Climate Champions' to raise awareness of climate change and to help 100 Bridgend borough households reduce their carbon footprints.

An introductory meeting is scheduled for Thursday, October 8 at 7.30pm in the Sustainable Wales office at 41 John Street, Porthcawl.

SW director, Margaret Minhinnick, said: "Let's face it, today's young people will experience the rough side of climate change and global warming. Our generation has caused the problem and so we should be part of the solution."

"So we're looking for concerned people to act as champions.

More than 40 percent of Britain's carbon dioxide

(CO2) emissions, the main greenhouse gas comes from the energy used at home and in travelling. Training will be provided by Richard Thomas, ar experienced energy assessor. "It will offer basic knowledge and understanding in energy use (heating, lighting and running a home) and potential improvements like upgrading boilers, getting insulation up to spec or reducing car travel," said

"The plan is to develop a group of 'Climate Change Champions' confident to go into homes in their own community and do a basic energy audit of the home and the occupants' lifestyles.

"This pilot project, supported by the Waterloo Fund, intends to help 100 households reduce their arbon footprint."

Those interested in becoming 'Climate Champions' should contact Sustainable Wales at 01656 783405 or email

The programmes at Southampton and Ipswich ere run by the Smallpeice Trust.

Mirali Patel, who gained 10A* grades at GCSE, tended a biomedical engineering course at the niversity of Southampton.

The four-day residential programme provided tudents with an understanding of biomedical engieering. Students received lectures from Finsbury orthapaedics, and the University bioengineering science research group. These included a series of master classes and laboratory demonstrations.

Sam Griffiths enjoyed a unique experience at BT

Adastral Park in Ipswich when 15 and 17-year-old tudents spent three days finding out how to turn eative engineering ideas into reality.

They were shown how technical innovations can eproduced, marketed and sold.

Meredith Lewis attended a marine technology course at the University of Southampton showing how educational and fun activities provide an insight into the industry and the careers that it can offer.

Working alongside facilitators from Babcock Marine and the university's school of engineering ciences, students were assigned a project to build heir own ship.

Headteacher Catherine Barnard commented: "We were delighted that these three pupils were selected of the drafting matter business was successed to attend the Smallpeice Trust residential courses his year. As a school, we are committed to developing entrepreneurial skills in our pupils wherever possible and undertake several enterprise and industry based teaching programmes."

Giant teddy bear rescued in pool less gala!

A LARGE crowd attended the second Porthcawl Pool-Less swimming gala held on Saturday.

The fun event, organised to highlight the lack of a municipal pool in the town, was run by Porthcawl SHOUT and took place in John Street. A 'pool' had been marked out, complete with lanes, and competitors had to progress along using an approved heel-to-toe method of propulsion, although arm movements were freestyle.

The event was launched by town crier Debbie Trindle in her full regalia, and former mayor Coun David Newton Williams was the compere.

Newton Lifeguards were on duty, complete with their Baywatch-style rescue boards, and indeed their life saving skills were needed when one of the competitors – a giant teddy bear – got into difficulties

Mandy Clarke from Kenfig Hill jumped in and effected a rescue, to much applause.

Competitors from as far afield as Cardiff took part and spokesman Gary Victor said that it was a great success.

"We designed it to last an hour and it lasted an hour," he said. "We had a slightly larger turnout than last year, which was our first gala.

"During the event, almost 400 people signed the petition calling for a pool to be included in the Porthcawl regeneration plans. That is on top of the 5,000-strong petition we organised when the public consultation on the regeneration was under way.

"Eighty per cent of those who signed live within the borough, while the other 20 per cent were people who live further away. There is a need for a pool both for residents and visitors," he insisted.

Porthcawl Sea Cadets excel in swimming competition

A TEAM of Porthcawl Sea Cadets was placed fourth overall at a recent swimming competition at MoD St Athan, between seven units in the south Wales district. beating some of the larger units - no mean feat as Porthcawl is one of the smaller units.

Porthcawl's team consisted of Able Cadet Anderson, Ordinary Cadet's Ceri Cheeseman and David Edwards Cadet Nathan Williams and Junior Cadet Luke

Ceri competed in the freestyle, breaststroke, backstroke and individual medley, winning all four events. David came a creditable second in breaststroke. Nathan came first in freestyle and butterfly and sec-ond in backstroke. Luke came first in freestyle, breaststroke and backstroke

Ceri, David and Nathan, now go forward to represent south Wales in the area competition next month at HMS Raleigh in Plymouth. Some of the Cadets will be going to Port Talbot in early October to attend either a Sea Cadet sail training or power boating course in order to attain their sailing or power boating certification, which is accredited to the Royal Yachting Association. In October,

Porthcawl Sea Cadets are also planning to hold a sponsored 200 kilometre challenge where they will complete a distance of 200K at Health and Fitness for all which is located in the Bethlehem Church Life Centre in Cefn Cribwr. Porthcawl are also working towards the district First Aid compe tition and will also be preparing of the Remembrance Parade in November.

Third music festival hits top note at Penmark

THE Third Penmark Music Festival on September 19 was voted a "great success' when 250 people enjoyed an afternoon of music, ranging from opera through jazz, big band songs to rock'n'roll and ballads.

Andrew Matthews had arranged a stellar cast, which included Susie Smart from Operamint, Andrew himself, Sheilah-Ann Farrier, the Llancarfan School Choir (who were brilliant), Beyond All Doubt (Sam Woollett's group) and Harry Brooks.

But these were only the supporting acts for the main stars, the Nigel Hart Jazz Band, who played their own music and then were joind by Jeff Hooper, who entertained us with a repertoire from the big band era.

Chloe Davies of Moulton returned to cap her memorable performance last vear with an even more memorable one this year, which included some of her own songs. (Chloe has now made her first CD - it won't be her last) and the whole show was compered by Mac Perry who filled in the changes of the bands with his own

THE DEFENCE COLLEGE PLAN BY VALE COU RUBBER STAMPED

N the end, the Defence Technical College (DTC) at MoD St Athan was not so much debated, as rubber stamped at last week's meeting of the Vale Council planning committee.

Given the fact that it was, by general agreement, the biggest and most complex application to ever appear before the council, the average observer would have been surprised at how few councillors had anything to say about it.

thing to say about it.

Not that the members of the press were complaining, you understand. With a DTC application running to 240-odd pages, and an Aerospace Business Park (ABP) application running to 160, a line-by-line debate could have lasted two days.

Nevertheless, I have heard planning committees get nore excited by a debate over a loft extension.

So who did speak? First was Coun Gwyn John from Llantwit Major, who said that he was speaking on behalf of Llantwit Major Town Council and other community councils in the area.

He began by saying that all the local residents he had spoken to were totally in favour of the DTC plans "inside the wire"

The problems, he explained, concerned the plans that will take the DTC outside the existing boundaries of MoD St Athan.

He outlined these problems to the planning committee, and many will be familiar to GEM readers, as they have been highlighted in this newspaper in recent weeks.

Coun John said that the Northern Access Road (NAR) has attracted considerable opposition, as it will take road traffic close to areas that, at the moment, are quiet and peaceful.

quiet and peacerui.

He was particularly upset on behalf of Millands Park residents, saying that many were elderly and had retired there for a quiet life. Residents in Llammaes and Monmouth Way would also be affected.

He insisted that the NAR was in contravention of the Vale Council's own UDP, and said that noise from the new road would be "unbearable".

He argued that the NAR was not essential for the DTC and ABP, and urged the council to drop this aspect of the plan.

He was also concerned that the firing range would be too close to existing homes, and that a Field

PHILIP IRWIN REPORTS ON A LANDMARK VALE PLANNING 'DEBATE'

Training Area (FTA) where soldiers would train to cope with ambushes, was also far too close. His other main objection was to the number of Service Family Accommodation (SFA) units that are to be built 'outside the wire'. He told the committee: "This has come about because the original plan was to put these homes on the golf course at RAF St Athan.

"I am glad that the golf club has been saved, but there was no need to respond by putting houses outside the wire.

Coun John was not a member of the committee. but he found support from a councillor who is, the leader of Plaid Cymru on the Vale Council, Coun Nic Hodges.

Now, no one could accuse Coun Hodges of being a flag-waver for the DTC.
Some months ago, he claimed that the DTC would lead to Llantwit Major being overrun with "drunken squaddies".

He pointed to the same objections as Coun John, the NAR, the SFA and the firing ranges.

He said: "There was a high level of support for this project, which swayed the bid in its favour, but local support since then has been haemorrhaging."

He had his own solution for the problem of the fir-ing ranges, pointing out that Wales already had similar facilities in Sennybridge and in west Wales.

He said: "Let us just put them all in a bus and

He satte: Let us just put them and a bus and drive them out to an existing range."

His Plaid colleague Val Hartrey also expressed reservations, saying that the 'Valleywood' scheme had dwindled away to just housing, with the promised film studios now lying empty.

However, when it came to the vote on the DTC, Coun Hodges found that his Plaid colleagues were not following their leader – and he was the only one to vote against.

When it came to the Aerospace Business Park vote.

that was passed unanimously.

Coun Eric Hacker and Coun John Clifford, both from Llantwit Major, also expressed concern about the effect on their constituents, but there were no other contributions

So what swayed the rest of the planning committee?

It could only be the contribution of Rob Thomas, the Vale Council's head of planning and transporta-

Mr Thomas went through the two reports, highlighting the areas where there was disagreement, and said that, as a result, the council had put more than 60 conditions on the development – all designed to protect local residents

There was much talk of decibel readings, and protective bunds, and sound reduction measures, and action to prevent light pollution.

In answer to Coun Hartrey's reservations, he insisted that the Northern Access Road cannot be built until there is formal approval for the entire project.

This, he said, would mean that it was impossible for a 'housing only' development to take place.

Golf range is to close as crematorium gets go-ahead

THE owner of South Wales Golf Range based on the Port Road Barry has expressed his sadness that it will close at the end of October after plans for a crematorium were given the green light.

LLANTWIT MAJOR 'SKATEFEST' HAILED A HUGE SUCCESS

MORE than 150 skaters and BMX riders enjoyed a "fantastic day" at Llantwit's first 'Skatefest' on the newlyrefurbished ramps at Frampton recently.

Vale youth services and the Pulse team provided a barbecue and Tribe skateboarding services brought along mobile skate equipment for the skaters to evaluate, and two professional skaters to demonstrate their skills.

An event spokesman said: "As soon as the mobile ramps were unveiled, the skaters were soon moone ramps were unveiled, the skaters were soot performing gravity-defying leaps and jumps, with skills to match the professionals. "Skaters came from Penarth, Rhoose, Dinas Powys and Bridgend – as the word spread to be part of Llantwit's Skatefest."

He continued: "The joint collaboration between the Vale Council's parks department participation officer, the Vale youth services, Llantwit's Pulse Team, Creative Rural Communities and Major Skate, was a superb way to highlight the positive nature of young people's participation in their communities.

Andy Borsden of the youth service said: "With so many people in one spot, there was no trouble and it was a joy for my team to be part of it; the weather was brilliant"

The skaters and Bmx riders filled in questionnaires evaluating wheeled sports facilities for young people in Llantwit and the Vale, and the comments regarding the new facilities in Frampton were overwhelmingly positive.

Derek Naylor, a founder member and chairman of Major Skate commented: "This has been a fantastic day for the skaters of Llantwit and emphasises the popularity of skateboarding in the Vale and the desire to upgrade facilities.

"As a group we wish to thank the collaboration with the Vale Council, Creative Rural Communities for funding and the Youth services or helping to get the new facilities up and running in such a short period of time.

"It has been a hugely successful project and we also want to acknowledge the continued support from councillors and the people of Llantwit."

He added: "The exemplary manner with which the skaters of Llantwit hosted our guests for the first of many Skate Fests was commented on by many, and was something to be proud of.'

'Keep your dogs under control' – plea by farmer after his steer is attacked

A LLANTWIT MAJOR farmer is calling for dog owners to keep their pets under control – after one of his cattle had part of its tongue bitten off!

Gareth Lucas, who has a beef herd which grazes near the coastal path, made the shock discovery last Thursday (September 24).

The steer had lost a section of its tongue, at least two inches in length, and Mr Lucas told The GEM:

"I can think of no alternative explanation, and neither could the vet who came to examine the steer."
He said: "I have no problem with people walking in the area and

He told The GEM that at first, he was worried that the injury would stop the steer eating, and that it might have to be put down.

However, it is able to get some nourishment by chewing on long grass, using its lips, but it still cannot cope with short grass or any special cattle feed. Mr Lucas said: "I know that it is only a tiny minority who act in this way, but this incident has caused the steer an enormous amount of distress

OWNERSHIP IN QUESTION

a valley landmark is being investigated.

The clock at Pricetown Square is badly in need of repair and refurbishment. It has stood on the roundabout in the village since it was provided by the old Miners' Welfare organisation, using funds from the Medical Aid Society.

The advent of the National Health Service in 1948 meant that the miners no longer needed to pay for the doctors and hospitals in the valley.

Ogmore Valley Community Council recently staged a public consultation on what should happen to the clock, which has now become a focal point for voung trouble-makers in the area.

Youngsters sit on the steps around the clock, which has four faces, drinking and creating a noise and nuisance for local residents.

At a special meeting of the council to discuss the future of the clock, members heard that the majority of residents wanted to see it remain in situ, rather than have it removed or relocated.

Police reported that there had been a considerable incidence of anti social behaviour in the area and they have called for a CCTV camera to be placed at the square to reduce problems there.

The community council has come up with some suggestions to reduce the problems, which include removing the steps around the clock which the youngsters sit on.

The council is also to consult with the young people of the area via the school and the Nantymoel Boys and Girls Club, to see if they will get involved in a project to regenerate the

51 empty shops in Bridgend survey notes

THERE are 51 empty shops in Bridgend town centre - according to a survey carried out this month.

The information was given to Bridgend Town Council by leader David Unwin who said that this total was two up on the 49 empty premises counted in March.

The largest number of empty shops are in Nolton Street with ten – one down from March.

There are eight empty shops in both Wyndham Street and Market Street and five each in the Rhiw Centre and Derwen Road.

Dunraven Place and the Brackla Street Centre both have four and there are three each in Adare Street and Caroline

Street - both down from the position in March.

The empty shops represent 11.5 per cent of the shop units available.

Members felt that the figure compared well with what was happening to other towns and nationally. Bridgend seemed to be less badly affected than other towns by the recession. But there was concern that the night time economy in the town has been badly hit with new of premises closing or reduced opening hours.

Restaurateurs and oth ers in the night time economy have asked BCBC to lift the ban on traffic entering the town centre after 6pm, so that patrons can be brought in and taken out by taxis after a night out but this has been rejected by the Planning committee has let down the local residents

AVING attended the Defence Training College (DTC) and Aerospace Business Park (ABP) meeting last week, I am absolutely disgusted with the manner in which the Vale's planning committee totally disregarded more than 2,000 petition signatures, some 140 individual letters of objections and major concerns expressed by a number of Assembly Members.

The committee voted overwhelmingly in favour of both schemes, despite being fully aware of major concerns regarding the Northern Access Road (and the suitability of the existing roads which will serve it), the use of greenfield sites for housing, the fir-ing range and field training areas, etc.

It was left to Couns Gwyn John and Nic Hodges to voice the concerns of St Athan and Llantwit residents. Unfortunately, the chairman of the planning committee. Jeffrey James, made it perfectly clear to the entire committee, that they should favour both schemes and this was reflected in their vote. His summing up couldn't have been more biased if Metrix had written it for him!

Funding for the DTC will not be decided until after the next General Election, so there was no need to rush this through planning.
The planning department could easily have taken the public's objections on board, recommended amendments and then considered a re application.

Instead, they approved the scheme as a whole, which is designed totally for the convenience of the developer and with no thought for the impacts on local communities.

The £ signs before their eyes affected their judgement as they sought to make a nest for a golden goose which has yet to prove fertile

Newly-laid paving slabs are already 'filthy'

NEWLY-LAID pavements in Bridgend, put in as part of the multimillion pound town centre regeneration, are already badly stained less than a vear after completion of the work.

Coun David Unwin told Bridgend Town Council that the state of the new paving slabs was "disgusting" and there had been a distinct lack of either powerwashing or gum-busting

The council's regeneration sub-committee had been told that a new sweeping and scrubbing machine recently acquired by BCBC will not remove pavement stains, as originally expected.

Members felt that the money spent on provid-ing the new paving stones will be wasted unless the council acts to remove the staining.

Coun Unwin said that contradictory information was being given to the town council.

"First of all, we were told in a letter that this machine cannot scrub but we are now being told that it can scrub. We need to have a definite answer as to whether or not it can scrub the pavements.

"In every single street in Bridgend, the pavements show signs of very bad staining and it is dirt that will not wash away.

Chairman, John Leaver, welcomed mem-bers back and the familiar speakers for the evening, Pam and Cled Lewis, who had shared their adventures on several previous occasions. Pam and Cled presented a collection of images taken on an extended trip around South America.

What is so entertaining about this pair is that they don't travel, they don't go on holidays they go on expeditions and have adventures!

On this particular trip the adventures started before they arrived at their first destination Buenos Aires, having suffered several delays and breakdowns en

Nonetheless, the intrepid pair came back with a very impressive collection of images of a fascinating country.

The first images were of the city of Buenos Aires itself. Warned not to look like tourists and keep cameras and other valuables out of sight the couple worked with two cameras, a Leica R9 DMR and a much less conspicuous Lumix

They experienced no difficulties and were very pleased that, despite the difference in the capacity of the two cameras, the images taken with the smaller Lumix compared very favourably with those taken with the much more expensive Leica. Clem and Pam enter tained us with stories of their travels and an eclectic mix of images of a fascinating city ranging from sculpture a huge stainless steel tulip which actually opened in the morning and closed at sunset:

modern and Spanish, French and Italian colonial architecture, street entertainers, gritty images of the poorer areas and images of the picturesque Italian Quarter reminiscent of Port Merion.

The images became more stunning as the evening progressed and included Seascapes and wildlife taken in Tierra del Fuego, the 240ft high four mile wide moving glacier - at El Calafate, Argentina and, for the homesick, the Welsh community in Patagonia.

Our thanks to Clem and Pam for an enjoyable evening to kick-start the 2009/10 season.

The next meeting of the society is on September 17, and will be a demonstration 'Lighting for Effect' by retired professional photographer, Marc Delany.

New welcome.

TWO bright sparks from the Barry area are among 150 youngsters beginning an apprenticeship with local power firm SWALEC.

Rory Barber (17) of Barry, and Luke Young, (18) of Dinas Powys, were shortlisted from 4,500 applicants to join an industry-renowned apprentice training programme run by SWALEC's parent company Scottish and Southern Energy

Ryan Sadler of SSE, said: "The number of companies recruiting apprentices has dwindled, but we see young people like Rory and Luke as an investment in our future."

Pupils' art work admired by AM

AS well as the colourful mural sponsored by Arriva Trains at Barry Town Station, the creative talents of Romilly Primary School pupils are featured in the MIND in the Vale Travellers Café and Gallery.

Their work has won admiration of Jane Hutt AM, for the Vale, who is pictured with Edward here Beer, Oliver Coborn and teacher Jane Mullane.

t Clare's School, Porthcawl is holding n Open Day on Wednesday 14th October. After another incredibly successful year characterised by excellent results at A Level and GCSE we would like to invite you to see why we consider ourselves the best independent school in the Bridgend area.

All round education

We offer an all round education from Nursery through to University applications and A Levels. Our pupils are confident, articulate and benefit from a keen sense of camaraderie that comes from thriving in an exciting and demanding learning environment.

Sharing is caring
Our Nursery has been praised for its achievements in developing language, literacy and communication skills, its focus on personal and social development and its provision for children's moral, social and cultural development by Estyn (2008). Our dedicated Nursery facility also allows the pupils the chance to mix with Prep and Senior School pupils from an early age.

Learning is exciting
At St Clare's Prep School we offer a broad and balanced curriculum designed to promote thinking and independent learning. We pride ourselves on our multi-cultural, inclusive approach - providing activities designed to immerse our children into a broad range of experiences.

Academic Success and Extra-Curricular Opportunities Academic Success and Extra-Curricular Opportunities From the moment they enter the Senior School our pupils are challenged to achieve everything within their potential. Whether it is art, drama, languages, sciences, humanities or mathematics, our pupils benefit from a high level of pastoral care from the most committed and talented teachers. That's why we recently achieved the best GCSE results in the borough and a 100% A Level Pass rate with over 75% of pupils receiving A – B grades.

Our pupils aren't limited to classroom endeavours thouch – with extra curicular outions that include Duke

Our pupils aren't limited to classroom endeavours though – with extra curricular options that include Duke of Edinburgh, orchestra, chess, languages, a range of sports and international trips our pupils learn to become independent and confident individuals. Our focus on business and entrepreneurship programmes also means that our pupils are well prepared for the world of work and their future careers. We also offer before and after school care from 7.30am and to 6pm.

If you would like your children to benefit from the unique educational onportunities on offer at St. Clare's

Good away win for Porthcawl

PONTYCLUN PORTHCAWL TOWN

PORTHCAWL Town Seconds moved two points clear at the top of table after cruising to a 4-1 victory at Pontyclun.

The visitors made a lively start and Pontyclun were forced to weather an early onslaught.

While battling to contain Porthcawl's repeated advances, the hosts did manage to venture forward, but failed to create a clear sight of goal. The visi-tors' firm defence was perfectly illustrated by a typically robust tackle after a quarter of an hour from the tenacious Martyn Morgan on the left flank.

The visitors opened the scoring when front man Matt Giles lost his marker to power home a header from Alex Treharne's left-wing

Marauding winger Treharne (18), switched flanks with the influential Porthcawl captain Alex Winkler to good effect, both linking up well with the full-backs holding midfielder Olly Warren and the hardworking front pair.

Porthcawl doubled their lead when a sweeping counter-attack pulled the hosts apart. Veteran forward Brandon Walters, who weaved his way past a timid Pontyclun defence, fired straight at the 'keeper but adven-turous right-back Mark Pickering surged into the box to neatly slot home the rebound.

The home side were allowed back into the contest when Martyn Morgan was harshly penalised for an apparent handball.

The penalty was tucked home past Richard Gorrett to hand the momentum to Pontyclun on the stroke of half-time.

Porthcawl wrestled back the initiative after the break and, as the home side began to tire, the visitors developed an urgency to their play as they looked to put the hosts out of sight.

After a passage of slick and free-flowing football, the evergreen Brandon Walters, who was busy and willing throughout, found the net after playing a defence-splitting one-two with Alex Treharne to drive home Porthcawl's third from close range.

As the absorbing encounter began to take its toll on the injury-hit Porthcawl side, they reacted by shoring up the midfield with the introduction of Lee Giles, debutant Darren Ward and Paul White.

The visitors wrapped up the win when Lee Giles marked his return from injury with a well-taken goal – the mid-fielder stealing ahead of his man to finish coolly and conclude the scor-

Pontyclun's brightest attacking forays were thwarted by a blue blanket of committed defenders, marshalled by the commanding centre-back pairing of Tom Warren and Mark Evans

Cowbridge Launches Thursday

8th October

Seven days 'til Cowbridge Fashion Show!

A CHAMPAGNE TRAIL, DANCE GROUPS, ENTERTAINERS AND BRITAIN'S LONGEST CATWALK!

OWBRIDGE Fashion Week, which is just one week away, is promising the longest catwalk in Britain on Thursday, October 8. Esther Hitchcock of Jon Ian one of the three fashion committee members along with Sue Marshall of Lois, and Awen Evans of Havana – explained: "We're having a 'Champagne Trail' on the Thursday evening with a parade starting at 6.15pm at which shops will be able to show off their fashions and designs.

"There will be a red carpet outside the shops which will make the parade the longest catwalk in Britain!"

A total of 39 businesses are taking part in the extravaganza! Esther said: "People will be able to have some champagne and browse from shop to shop - it's an event which shows people that despite the recession we're fighting back and providing a unique shop-

There are probably more designer items in Cowbridge than Cardiff, and it is great to see so many local people pulling together to put on such a great event.

"There will be street entertainers and dance groups.

"Aubrey Parsons is providing piped throughout the town.

"One thing we can guarantee is that if it rains the evening's entertainment will definitely go on."

To give you a small flavour of what is going on:

Karma Beauty is promising a 1920s 'Flapper Night'.

Oscars is providing champagne with every adult meal.

En Vogue says that 'For one night only there will be an X-Factor singer'.
Bar 44 will be making up

Fashion Week cocktails. Jeyes is putting on a champagne

Jon Ian will present a 'Bollywood Night'.

Pebble is putting on a Mama

Mia night and will have live win-

Visage is going continental with 'Spanish Night'. Havana will entertain with 'Mardi Gras Night' and live band Cocama.

Lois expects a visit from 007 music on the evening, and it will be himself with a James Bond-themed evening.

The late night entertaiment and shopping will go on until 9pm.

An indication of the popularity of Cowbridge Fashion Week is shown by the fact that a ladies' fashion lunch, hosted by Justina Simpson and Jonathan Hill, at the Bear Hotel for 180 people has already sold out.

But fear not, there is still lots to see on Friday which has been designated 'Designer Bargain Day' The Bear Hotel and Town Hall will be running designer sale rooms. Esther said: "There are still some tickets available for the climax of fashion week, a black tie charity dinner event featuring a catwalk show, live band and raffle on behalf of Tv Hafan.

Esther laughed: "There will be some local talent too! Cowbridge ladies, and men, will model clothes sold in the town, and the make-up and hair-dos will be provided by local businesses."

shion \

If anyone would like to book tickets they should contact John Ian on 01446 775226.

Ty Hafan was nominated as Cowbridge Fashion Week's chosen charity because of the help it gives families across Wales. Sue Marshall, one of the organisers of the fashion week, experienced its unique support when her late son Max was seriously ill.

Fashion Week first started in 2006 and over the years it has become more and more ambitious.

Esther added: "It is an example of the town all pulling together and showing visitors the many things we have to offer.

"It has been so successful that we hope it will become an annual

Landmark scheme will preserve Cowbridge's historic town walls

by MIKE MEREDITH

owbridge's historic town walls, first built in the 12th century, are to be repaired and restored under a creative scheme devised by the town's Charter Trust which is likely to get under way within weeks.

Under the project, funded by the Vale Council, the walls will be re-pointed, repaired and in some circumstances reconstructed to make them safe and weather-proof.

Charter Trust chair-man, Luke Millar said: This is easily the most important scheme that the Trust has taken on since it was formed eight years ago. The walls were in imminent danger of collapse, as they already have in one small portion.

"Indeed, they might have been lost entirely had we not had the invaluable support of our onsultant civil engineer, Peter Jones, together with that of the Vale Council and our own walls sub-group, who have worked over three years to prepare the structures for this impor tant launch decision.

Mr Jones, who outlined the proposed scheme to Trust members at Cowbridge Town Hall last Thursday said that the project was likely to take five-seven months to complete, dependent on the weath-

He said that bids for the contract had been received from four experienced local contractors. all of them professionals in the construction of stonework and the use of lime mortar.

Mr Iones observed: "It is comforting to know that such skilled people are available to complete work like this. All four have been most thorough in their proposals and we expect to award the contract very shortly.

"I see it as a triumph for Cowbridge, acknow! edging the vital part that the town has played in the history and development of south Wales. Everyone who takes pride in the town should have reason to celebrate this scheme.

Cowbridge town walls were first built in the second half of the 12th century by Richard de Clare, and stood the test of time as a secure bastion until the 1700s when they were largely dismantled to provide stonework for the construction of nearby prop-erties, including Old

"As we've seen from the foundations, the original walls were substantial and formed from blocks of dressed stone, probably quarried local-ly," Mr Millar explained. "They were then replaced by the largely rubble wall we have today.

"Despite its perhaps lesser pedigree, the walls stand as testament to times past, giving Cowbridge a status as one of the few remaining walled towns in Wales. It is right and proper that these structures should be preserved and maintained. That is what we are about to do," he added

Rob McGhee, of the Transition group, gave a short presentation before the film to introduce the principles of Transition, which is rooted in the need for a sustainable future in the face of Climate Change and Peak Oil.

He said: "Transition is a means of bringing peoole together to develop a

At the end of the film, Atlantic College student, Charlie Young (17), told of his experience during the production of the film, which was five

Willis' sci-fi actioner is robotically dull

CIENCE fiction and drama have always gone hand in hand on the cinema screen.

From the likes of Metropolis, through to Blade Runner and movies like I, Robot, the mixture has made for varied success, produc-ing some good and some

What they all have in common is a message that over-reliance on technology can be a harmful thing, whether it is in the shape of alien life or from our own human hands.

The latest film to labour this point is Surrogates, set in an alternative present-day where humans live their day-to-day lives through their very own robotic 'surrogate'.

When instances of humans being murdered at the same time as their surrogates crop up, FBI agent Tom Greer (Bruce Willis) and his partner (Radha Mitchell) are assigned to investigate them: however, when Greer is forced to leave his home and investigate a world he is no longer part of, he finds these murders are just the tip of the iceberg... Like most of the product that comes off Hollywood's assembly line these days, Surrogates is based on a comic book series. It is highly likely that said comic book series is probably a thousand more times intelligent and entertaining than its filmic counterpart.

Surrogates is a painfully dull film that, while making noises about being a block-buster with brains, is the ultimate winner.

eventer, Nicola Lewis, nothing of the sort – instead it is the kind of film that likes to think it says something about society, but only manages to repeat what other films have said without adding anything fresh to the mix.

Anyone who has seen The Matrix, I, Robot or Minority Report will have an idea of what is going to unfold over its stupidly short running time of 88 minutes (nowhere near enough time to successfully convey and justify the number of plot strands and twists)

While the credit sequence cleverly sets up the story, bringing those cold to the comic books up to speed, it is what happens after the credits that lacks any real bite or drama.

Placing Jonathan Mostow in the director's chair isn't something that was ever going to assist the film in any way. The director is a capable action director, but nothing more, and he fails to give the film anything close to a visu-al identity. For a film that attempts to meld bang and brains, there is a paucity of the former on show, Mostow's only action sequences of note feeling lackadaisical and devoid of any real inspiration. He isn't helped by a screenplay from Michael Ferris and John D Brancato which appears to use the little known, but seemingly often used (and, I should add, non-existent), 'Screenplay writing for dummies' book.

While it takes the basics of the genre, and throws in a little dash of ments don't quite reconcile, the screenplay tak-ing far too obvious turns into narrative cul-de-sacs that are far too well worn to lend any conviction to the story.

In fact, it recalls I, Robot, both stylistically and in narrative terms (though given its based on source material you can't really blame the writers), and much like that film, Surrogates also misfires quite dramatically.

Bruce Willis has always been a more than capable actor, and here he brings another strong turn to the table, essaying a character with a clichéd back story, yet never failing to elicit a response from the audi-

It is a fine turn, and indeed a stand-out turn. that is head and shoulders above the rest of the performances, and the film as a whole. The other turns are merely storyline ciphers that don't allow much in the way of depth. It is a problem that none of the actors can overcome, whether it's Ving Rhames, Radha Mitchell or Rosamund Pike, who is given a meatier role vet not given the chance to actually do anything with it. The overriding problem with Surrogates, ironically enough, is that it is all too glossy and robotic to allow any hint of humanity to develop within it.

SCREEN TALK

by GARETH JAMIESON

Whether this was a conscious decision by the filmmakers or not it doesn't work in the end product

While it tries to make salient points about how excessive use of technology can blunt our humanity, you'll struggle to remember the message once you've left the cinema and are straight onto your mobile phone.

VERDICT – A dull film that thinks it's far more salient than it is. Surrogates is a robotic and pointless film that does little to enhance any of those involved. What could have been something intelligent and watchable, instead struggles for life under a blanket of cliché, predictability and all-round boredom One to avoid.

Elvis Festival is 'huge boost' for Porthcawl supremo, Peter Phillips, insists that the Porthcawl event has now grown to be the biggest such event in the world - with more ETAs (Elvis Tribute Artists) performing than anywhere else.

That claim must owe a great deal to the Hi-Tide Inn, where on the Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights there was a 'paid-for' show, but in addition, the venue put on three extra shows per night all free!
It meant that a steady stream of ETAs were shuttling between the Hi-Tide and venues in the town.

The weekend had the bonus of perfect weather, and the town was packed from dawn to dusk, with good-natured fans mixing with locals and providing great amusement with the variety of Elvis-related fashion on show. Peter Phillips told

The GEM: "What other event could bring so many people to Porthcawl so late in the season?

"The pubs are packed, hotels and guest houses are full, and cafes and restaurants are doing great business."

Certainly, there cannot have been a weekend in recent Porthcawl history when so many taxis were around, all ferry ing fans to and fro.

There was even a surprise celebrity appearance.

It used to be that people would get into the newspapers by reporting sightings of Elvis – after the rumour went around that he had faked his own death.

Well, one of Wales' most enigmatic public figures made his own appearance in Porthcawl on the Saturday night – dressed as Elvis! Regulars in the

Porthcawl in close games

PORTHCAWL under-10s played Bridgend Athletic's Green and Yellow teams.

These local derby matches are usually too close to call, and Sunday's game was no different.

Athletic Greens started well, but Porthcawl held strong to finish as winners by 14-7. The try scorers for Porthcawl were Brandon Cooper and Ben Roach. Both tries were converted by Brandon Cooper. Man-of-the-match was Ben Collins.

In the game against the Athletic Yellows, Porthcawl were victorious by 19-14.

The try scorers for Porthcawl were; Joe Stradling (two) converted by Zakk Furness-Jones and Joe Beale. Sam Edwards grabbed the third and decisive try, against his old club. The first time they managed to get into the Ath half, they provided the game's opening try, which was converted. The Ath continued to play good rugby with strong runs from Jac Bassett, Morgan Hughes and Mitchell Davies upfront. Chris Matthew enjoyed some good ball at scrum half and made several sniping runs. The Ath boys finally got their reward for their first half effort when outside half Caine Woolerton darted down the blindside, broke a couple of tackles and touched down. Caine also converted to level the score as the halftime

Everyone was feeling positive, thinking that a first victory against Porthcawl could be on for the Ath, but the second half was a different story. Despite some good play in small patches from the Ath, it was Porthcawl who raised their game and began to dominate. The forward power of the home team was beginning to tell as they went on numerous charges towards the Ath line. The Ath forwards, despite heroic work from Matthew Hobby and man of the match Rhys Gamble, who was outstanding, started to tire and Porthcawl seemed

REVENGE IS SWEE' FOR BRIDGEND ATH UNDER-9 GREENS

THE Athletic under-9 squad travelled to sunny Porthcawl with a squad of 23 players but once again, the Ath came up against a small squad.

The Yellows kicked things off and it was Porthcawl who struck first with a good try. The next try came from Bridgend, through a fantastic run from Sam

With both sides passing the ball around, this half belonged to Porthcawl, with them notching up the next two tries, taking it to a half time score to 3-2.

The second half saw three changes to the Yellows.

This half was different with Ath players upping the tempo with some fine tackling in defence from James Hermolle and the rest of the team. The ball was turned over for the Yellows to run in their second try through Veasey.

With tries going back and forth, Porthcawl touched down for their fourth and final try, leaving the Ath to have the last say of the game, as Sam Veasey ran in for his hat-trick

Player of the match went to James Hermolle.

Final score: Porthcawl 4, Ath Yellows 3.
Yellows squad: Cai Robinson, Morgan Evans, Charles Creffield, James Hermolle and Taine Waite, William Goodall, Sam Veasey, Josh Tidy, Daffydd Beech and Christopher Hart. Reserves: Brandyn ooks, Ffion Rebill and Anya Evans.

Next game

IN the second game, the same Porthcawl side took on Athletic Greens, who wanted revenge for their fellow squad members.

Straight from the start the game was to be very one sided, with the Ath Greens proving to be too strong. This was proved, with the Greens taking an 8-0 lead at half time.

In the second half, two changes were made but play was to be no different, with the Ath continuing to be was to be not uniterent, with the Authorithming to be on top. The Ath played some fantastic rugby, rucking and cleaning out, passing the ball through hand and supporting to a very high standard.

The Greens notched up a further five tries.

The Greens notched up a further five tries.

The player-of-the-match went to Gwilym John, for his forward play and passing out of hand.

Ath Greens try scorers: Connor Fabian (five), Daniel O'Sullivan (two), Kasari Mehta (two), Jamie Marshall (two), Jack Obbard, and Megan Webb.

Squad: Gwilym John, Jack Obbard, Teo Fillis, Daniel O'Sullivan and Jade Thomas, Connor Fabian, Thomas Authory, Kasari Mehta, Magan Webb, and

Thomas Anthony, Kasari Mehta, Megan Webb and Jamie Marshall. Reserves: Ffion Rebill and Anya

Athletic under-8s outflank Porthcawl

From the start, the Ath worked hard holding their defensive line. The first chance the Ath had they took and, from a strong run, Oliver Raynor popped up to take a pass and score a good try in the corner.

Porthcawl threw every thing at the Ath in the first half, but the defence was outstanding. Morgan Bennett got the second with a well-worked move to score in the corner. Porthcawl pressed on many occasions but could not break the defence and, just before half time Dewi Harding raced down the line to score a great solo try

The second half again started fast with Porthcawl working hard, and breaking through many times, only to be caught by the Ath's defence. Oliver Raynor opened the scoring in the second half with another good supporting run to score his second of the game.

The Ath boys showed great awareness of space, and after a turnover ball, Mason Hughes weaved his way to the line to score a great solo try. With time running out, Porthcawl broke through the Ath's defence to score a good try of their own, but the Ath came straight back, and from a couple of good passes Mason Edwards squeezed over in the corner.

On the last play Porthcawl showed good passing skills and raced down field to have the final say and cross the line for a good try.

Final score: Bridgend Athletic 6, Porthcawl 2.

Player of the match went to Morgan Bennett who had a great all-round game.

The squad: Archie Burnett, Bobby Bromley, Dewi Harding, Emyr Anthony, Iwan Hill, Jack Pitts, Mason Edwards, Mason Hughes, Morgan Bennett, Oliver Raynor and Sam Ralph.

See-saw contest between under-7s

BRIDGEND Athletic under-7s travelled to Porthcawl for their first away game of the season.

The Ath worked hard in the early minutes of the first half, putting in some good defence work and, after a turnover, Jordan Gittins got the first try of the Porthcawl also played good rugby and scored a good try not long after to level the scores. It was the Ath who scored next, with a long run deep in their own half which broke the Porthcawl defence and put Jordan Gittins in to get his second.

Porthcawl caught the Ath napping from the restart, and raced upfield to even the scores

Euan Rees got his name on the score sheet not long after, scoring a loose ball and racing to the corner to score a great try.

Again, Porthcawl came back and finished the half the stronger, scoring two good tries to put them in front at the break.

The second half was much like the first as the Ath opened the scoring again with a strong run by Thomas Lewis, who managed to squeeze his way over for a good solo try.

All the squad worked really hard and the defence stopped Porthcawl scoring on numerous occasions.

Jordan Gittins scored another try with a great solo effort, and after another set of six tags by the Ath, Lloyd Bennett took the ball from the tap and raced to score a great solo try, putting the Ath two tries up with only a minute or so to go.

Porthcawl threw everything at the Ath and they pressed and pressed and scored another good try in the corner. Unfortunately, that was the last play of the game, but what a game it was!

Final score. Bridgend Ath 6, Porthcawl 5.
Player-of-the-match went to Lloyd Bennett who had a good all-round performance, but every one played really well.

The squad:- Oliver Gibbs, Connor Lees, Ryley Howells, Ellis Penman, Euan Rees, Fynn Mordecai, Jordan Gittins, Lloyd Anthony, Lloyd Bennett, Rhys Thomas, Daniel Elias and Thomas Lewis.

Police just edge it against Cefn

CEFN CRIBWR SOUTH WALES POLICE

AFTER two condefeats, secutive South Wales Police made the short journey to Cefn Cribwr and took the game to the home side on every occasion.

After 15 minutes, the Police looked as if they had secured the first points of the day only to see the referee disallow

Minutes later, strongrunning flanker Jason Davies broke through three tackles to go over for a well deserved try which went unconvert-

Just before half time outside-half Ryan Miles slotted over a penalty to increase the Police lead nictace that to eight points.

Cefn where definitely in this game and only good defence work from Carl Davies, Stuart Carl Davies, Stuart Elson, Nathan Williams and Rod Jenkins kept them at bay. However, the pressure finally paid off when Cefn turned over possession to go over for a well-deserved unconverted try.

It only looked like a matter of time before their continued commitment and pressure would pay off and it did when, from a scrum taken against the head, they used a blindside move to go over for a well deserved try which again went unconverted.

With Cefn piling on the pressure, the Police gave away another penalty and the home side extended their lead to 13-8. However, once again the Police decided to leave it late and good work from the forwards saw the ball go wide, where wing Mark Down went on a surging run, only to be stopped inside the Cefn 22.

With minutes ticking away, a loose kick from Cefn bounced nicely to prop Stuart Elson, who off-loaded brilliantly to hooker Carl Davies who weaved his way over in the corner for the try. Miles had a chance to put the Police in front but pulled the touchline conversion just wide.

The game seemed to be heading for a draw but in the dying minutes, the Police were awarded a penalty. This time outside half Miles made no mistake, giving the Police a well deserved

Prominent for the Police were Sean Ellis, Adam Hale and Gary Money, with captain for the Police Gerald Hodgson again having another solid game.

VIGAR Mary

John and his family would like to express their grateful thanks to everyone who attended Mary's funeral. The very large congregation was a testament to a wonderful and much loved lady, who will, sadly, be sorely missed by family and friends alike. All the cards and letters of sympathy and fond memories have also been very much appreciated. Our sincere thanks go to Dr Sarah Coleman and the District Nurses from Cowbridge who have given Mary so much loving care and attention throughout her long illness. Thanks also to Southerndown Golf Club and Penybont Funeral Services for their professionalism.

Anatole (Tony) Yudin-Craven

Devoted husband of Mary Yudin (FitzHerbert) formerly of Cowbridge, presently St.Athan, peacefully passed away on 24th September last. He will be sadly missed by his children and grandchildren.

LATEST NEWS FROM BRYNHILL GOLF CLUB

Golf match ends in a draw again!

ONE of the most popular events on the Brynhill golfing calendar is the match played between the ladies and seniors.

Sixteen of the seniors, led by their vice-captain Glyn Shepherd and including club captain Colin Lloyd, took on 16 ladies, led by lady captain Jo Hopkins.

The final result is never in doubt – the match always ends in an honourable draw!

Nevertheless, the games can become quite competitive despite the banter and laughter!

Recent results round-up

Cadoxton Tae Kwon Do school fare well at world tournament

OVER a recent weekend, the Cadoxton Schools of Tae Kwon Do combined forces with kick boxing and Kung Fu schools to form a combined Welsh squad to represent Wales at the World Games held in Ocean City, Maryland, USA.

WOMAA World Martial Games X was smaller than expected, but the quality of competition was excellent.

The recession has hit everyone very hard, and this included the WOMAA World Martial Games X, as many countries could not attend due to loss of jobs, finances, recession etc, not to mention that the US State Department did not allow visas to many countries at the last moment.

The countries that did attend had a wonderful time and represented their countries with pride and good sportmanship.

With a little less than 300 total competitors, the ames ran smoothly over the three days and brought forth many new WOMAA world champions.

The finals on Sunday night were something to see – everyone who attended the finals had a great time and witnessed some great competition from some world class competitors.

The event opened on the Friday night with all the continuous sparring sections.

Thomas Haysham got the club off to a good start, taking third, and only losing by two points to the eventual champion from Canada.

Morganne Gomez Jones was next on the mat. She fought up a category (14-17 girls), making her way through to the final where she outclassed her USA opponent to come away with first place.

Jamie Halford was the last of the club's competitors to compete – he had a hard fight to reach the final where he met the Italian champion. Jamie easily overpowered him, winning by a majority decision and taking first place.

Saturday was the day for all traditional creative and musical forms.

Netball club needs new junior members

BARRY Netball Club has been established for more than 30 years, and is looking for new junior members.

The club is currently looking for children aged 8-15, and trains every Monday term time at the Colcot Sports Centre (new hall), 8-11 age group 5pm-6.15pm and juniors (11-15) 6.20pm-7.40pm. New adult members are also welcome.

For more information, contact Linda Rees on 01446 749965

Once again, young Thomas Haysham gave the club a fine start by taking second in the traditional Korean patterns, followed by Jamie Halford also taking second in his category. Jamie then went on to take third in the weapons section.

Sunday was a good day for the Cadoxton School, with two firsts and one third place.

Thomas Haysham fought a very good American fighter in the final, this time taking the bout by two Morganne Gomez Jones had to work hard to out-point her bigger Canadian opponent, eventually taking the bout in extra time by one point.

Jamie Halford was again last up, where he was unlucky to meet the eventual American winner, only losing out by two points and coming away with third place.

The school would like to thank all its supporters and parents for their help and support in getting these students to the World Games.

For further information and training times, tele-phone 01446 406372 or 07811 934079.

RUGBY: Sea View and Star

LAST week's rugby report on the game between the Sea View and Star second teams, unfortunately, had the match score transposed, giving Sea View the win.

The GEM is happy to confirm that the match score was, in fact, 40 - 16 in favour of Star Seconds.

Swimmers swell Swimathon funds

THIS year's Swimathon at Barry Leisure Centre helped swell the total raised for charities to £1.5m nationwide.

Swimmers at more than 500 UK pools took part to raise funds for Marie Curie Cancer Care and the Swimathon Foundation.

Swimmers who completed distances of up to 5km at Barry Leisure Centre raised £2,896. Local organ-isers Linda Smith and Jade Edwards, said: "We are delighted that so many people in Vale took part and we are thrilled with how much money was raised."

PENARTH COMPUTER CLUB NEWS

A little 'tweaking' will go a long way

STEVE is usually one of the first to arrive to set up the projection system ready for the talk and generally be use-

At the last meeting of the Penarth Computer Club, he was scheduled to give the talk on how to be in control of your computer. With minutes to go before the start, he arrived in haste having been delayed. Everything was ready.

He connected his laptop to the projector - and it wouldn't talk to the projector.

Why are inanimate objects so often like that? It is as if they know exactly when being awkward would have the most effect.

In a few minutes, Steve had wrestled his laptop into submission, thus proving that he, at least, was in control of his computer. He then proceeded to show everybody how to be in control of theirs.

He showed how to customise the view of the desktop (the view you enjoy when starting a working session).

The first button to click on is the start button.

Even at this first stage there are options for what appears next. If you do not like the menu that pops up on start, you can revert to an earlier classic view that might be more familiar and perhaps more to your taste. Go: start > control panel; double click on Taskbar and Start Menu Properties.

Click on the Start Menu tab and you can have the choice between the normal start menu and the classic one.

Whichever one you prefer, if you click on the Customize button you will find options available.

There are too many options to explain in detail, but you can experiment with them when you are in the mood. The other tab on the dialogue box concerns the Taskbar at the bottom of the screen. There are interesting options for that, too!

When you right-click in any space on the desk-top a dialogue box appears. The Themes tab will help you select from a variety of colour schemes for your windows

The Desktop tab will let you choose the background picture (or a plain colour). The Screensaver tab has more than a dozen options – including a slide show of your own pictures if you wish.

The Appearance tab allows tweaking of all sorts of properties within the Windows Classic view.

The last tab, Settings, allows changes to be made to the resolution. The range of options will depend on the capability of your monitor.

You can adjust the settings to give the most satisfactory results. A lower resolution will result in displayed items being bigger, but consequently with room to show fewer items. Conversely a high resolution can show more items at a smaller scale resolution can show more items at a smaller scale.

Customisation doesn't stop there. Far more options exist. Start > Help > Customising your computer will open up a world of possibilities.

The keyboard and mouse offer a wealth of weaks to suit your preference. The mouse is a much-used tool to communicate with the computer and you can control the speed that it travels and what it looks like at start > control panel; double-click on Mouse.

You can switch the buttons left-to-right. You can select from 20 mouse schemes to find one that suits under the Pointers tab - even so far as to select individual icons to create your own scheme that ou can save. If you wish, you can arrange to have the pointer move automatically to a default button in a dia-logue box to save yourself the trouble of moving it. This is useful for people who find difficulty in controlling mouse movements.

Who needs computer games when there is so much fun to be had playing with customisation? There's something for everyone and you are encouraged to play.

You can, perhaps, turn your computing experience from a chore to a pleasure. Happy tweaking.

Our next meeting is on Tuesday, October 13, 7.30pm in All Saints Lesser Hall, Victoria Square, Penarth. Howard will re-visit golden rules and the things you wish someone had told you when you started computing and introduce some new ones. Visitors and new members are welcome.

Boom time for ChipsAway

A LOCAL business is reaping the benefits of a high-profile TV advertising campaign and is gearing up for the autumn, as leading automotive paintwork repair specialist ChipsAway extends its on-air exposure to 'Dave', the popular entertainment channel.

Paul Jarvis of ChipsAway, said: "The message that keeping your car paintwork in good repair need-n't cost a fortune and can be done quickly and conveniently is a powerful one, particularly during a credit crunch. Advertising on national TV has certainly helped spread the word!

"Over the summer months, we have received in excess of 32,000 enquiries, continuing a strong growth curve since the beginning of this year," states Lloyd Evans, ChipsAway's chief executive.

"During the first half of 2009, we saw demand for repairs increase by more than 70 per cent, which is phenomenal!"

Don't let a scratch on your car put a dent in your pocket!

Stone chips, scratches and bumper scuffs can now be repaired same day at your convenience and at a fraction of 'Body Shop' costs.

✓ Bumper Scuffs ✓ Paint Scratches Stone Chips Alloy Wheels For your no obligation quote, call your local operator Paul Jarvis 07904 840202 01446 771727 OFT

Division favourites set the bar high for Bridgend Athletic

TONMAWR BRIDGEND ATHLETIC

yet another Saturday with the sun shining strongly and the home pitch above the Afan Valley in excellent condition, the Athletic continued their league campaign at the division favourites, big-spending Tonmawr.

Despite being competitive and tenacious throughout, the Athletic had to learn the hard way that you cannot hope to compete at this level if you play for more than half an hour with one player less than your opponents, especially one with the tight forward strength and well-organised backs of the home team.

The early exchanges were scrappy, with both teams losing good positions due to infringements and a couple of wayward penalty attempts by Stuart Morris for the Athletic and Warren Davies for Tonmawr ensued.

The Athletic were playing tenaciously and, when the home team took exception to young flanker Tom Morgan's foraging in the loose, a scuf-fle took place in which a few punches were thrown and Morgan and Tonmawr's hooker, Harvey were asked to take a 10-minute cooling off period by the referee, Mr Kirkhouse.

Eventually, the home team infringed once too often and Morris sent a kick sailing through the posts from 45metres.

The Athletic were looking the sharper of the two outfits, with captain Rod Jones, Sean Williams and Ben Howe in fine form. Tonmawr were disrupted further when lock Hywel Davies and scrum-half, former-Athletic player James Donovan suffered injuries. Nevertheless, it was Tonmawr who now began to dominate the tight at both scrum and line-

Porthcawl lose out in tennis

THE St Cyres year-8 and under, and year-10 and under teams qualified from the county section of the Aegon Team Tennis competition run by the LTA.

Both teams had to travel to play Porthcawl Comprehensive in the regional round. The year-8 and under team of Dana Yee, Rachel Hignett, Leah Cunningham and Corrie Driscoll won, and now Cuminignam and Corrie Discoit won, and now face Sir Thomas Picton School, Haverfordwest.

The year-10 and under team of Safiyyah Azeez, Emily Jellings, Bethan Daw, Amy Wathan and Lauren McCarthy had some tough matches.

Safiyyah and Emily won both their singles and their doubles. Bethan, Lauren and Amy lost all thei matches but won four games between them. This was enough to ensure victory for St Cyres 22-19.

Thanks go to the staff and pupils of Porthcawl

Comprehensive. The matches were all played in an excellent spirit by both teams.

out, and soon evened the scores with a well taken penalty by Davies.

The Athletic lost three successive line-outs on their own throw and, with captain Jones being shown yellow for some clumsy footwork at a ruck, Tonmawr took the lead through experienced fly-half Austen Howells' penalty. Tonmawr continued to dominate both scrum and lineout, and spent the last few minutes of the half camped on the visitors

The half-time score was Tonmawr 6 Bridgend Athletic 3.

Tonmawr started the second half as they had finished the first, by exerting pressure on the Athletic line, where they forced two five-metre scrums and launched attacks which ultimately came to nothing as a penalty sent them back to half-way.

The Athletic appeared to relax for a moment and lost another lineout. Howells lofted a huge kick to the posts and the ball popped into the hands of home wing Gareth John, who crossed for an easy conversion from Howells.

The Athletic had it all to do and brought on fresh legs in the form of Hillman and Sainsbury for last year's youth team flankers Morgan and Howe, and the strong-running Sean Owens at centre to replace the ever-reliable Tom Goodwin.

Unfortunately, they suffered a further setback when Rod Jones was shown a second yellow card for another ruck infringement, and they were reduced to 14 men for the remainder of the game.

This proved too much for the Bridgend side Tonmawr kicked to the corner and set up a driving maul and, with sustained and controlled forward play, forced their way over for a try again converted by Howells. The Athletic were sticking gamely to their task and strong runs by Owens and Apsee drove the home team back, only for possession to be kicked away - perhaps through a lack of confi-

It was the home side who had the final say with a series of drives from scrum and lineout which eventually outnumbered the Athletic defence for No 8 Robert Hill to trundle over unopposed for the final score of the game. This latest setback pointed up the need for the Athletic to maintain control of possession when so much effort has gone into gaining the ball, and that they must trust to their handling and running skills to raise the tempo against other teams in this strong division.

Final score: Tonmawr 25 Bridgend Athletic 3.

Street Rugby League comes to Nantymoel

A NEW sport has started in the Ogmore Valley, as PCSOs Richard Thomas and Gareth Evans have been working closely with the Celtic Crusaders' community development manager, Matthew Pritchard, to introduce 'Street Rugby eague' to Nantymoel.

Regular training sessions have now started, based at Nantymoel Boys and Girls Club, and take place ery Monday, starting at 5pm.

Street Rugby League is a joint initiative between safer Bridgend and the Crusaders and provides young people with an opportunity to be coached by the Crusaders and Police Community Support

The training sessions will continue every Monday until December. They involve street rugby skills and not just rugby, as they may be involving boxing elements and fitness as well.

PCSO Thomas said: "All the Street Rugby League training and games will be held in open community spots such as local parks and playing fields, making it more accessible for youngsters to get involved. All ages and abilities are invited to take

POLICE MAKE SEVENS FINAL BUT FALL TO THE IRISH

SOUTH WALES Police, who celebrate 40 years of rugby this season. took part in the first ever British Police Rugby Sevens, held at Stourbridge in tribute to everyones friend and rugby's true gentleman Colin Hillman.

In their first game, they came up against a well-drilled Kent Police squad, but came out eventual winners 29-14 with tries coming from Lloyd Williams (two) Steve Harris, Dan Todd and Rhys Williams.

Williams also added two conversions

Next up were Strathclyde, and again a solid performance saw the Police run out winners by 28-14. Tries were scored by Steve Harris, James Cosslett, Rhys Williams and Matt Cunningham. Williams added two conversions, with Harris and Cunningham grabbing one each.

The Police then took on Gloucester and were firing on all cylinders, running in four tries with Matt Cunningham, Mike Richards, Lloyd Williams and Dan Todd grabbing a try each. Todd added a conversion and the Police were also awarded a penalty try, making the final score 27-12

Winning their next game would see them through to the semi-final as group winners. This they achieved in fantastic style, beating Cumbria 33-0. Tries came from Mike Richards (two) Steve Harris, James Cosslett and Chris Davies. Richards added two conversions, with Harris and Todd grabbing one each. A solid perform-ance came from Stuart Elson.

Semi final

IN the semi final, the Police took on Staffordshire who had looked good throughout their previous games, nut the Police turned in a five-star performance to come out winners by 31-12.

Mike Richards claimed two tries, with Rhys Williams, Dan Todd and Steve Harris grabbing one each. Williams, Todd and Harris also added a conversion each, winning this game placed them in the final against the much fancied GARDA team.

Final

THE final seemed to be a game too far, and although they took an early lead through a try from Matt Cunningham, injuries and tired legs saw the the GARDA come out convincing winners by 36-5.

This was a tremendous effort by the whole squad.
The president for South Wales Police, Steve Cottrell, thanked Lindsey Griffiths (team manager) for putting the squad together at short notice, and the whole squad for their commitment throughout the tournament.

Pencoed under-9s too strong for plucky Fardre welcomed Llantwit Fardre last Sunday on what turned out to be a great day for rugby.

Fardre had a newly-developed side but had total commitment from the off, and were putting together some strong running moves. The forwards were in The forwards were in awesome form with Mikey Bosley, Owain Johns and Rhys Spurgeon hitting the breakdowns first every time. Oliver Lewis and Cael Chamberlain were making quick pick ups, driving forward and releasing the ball for speedsters Tyron Harding, Sam Costelow and Rhys Bending to score early on.

Llantwit Fardre put up a spirited defence with Jack Foxley and Tom Hunter putting in some great tackles, but the skill level of the Bridgend team saw Owain Johns and Tom Bending go over for two each and Mikey Bosley, Rhys Spurgeon finished the first half with one try each.

Dewi Ward and Jack Morgan came on and con-tinued the attacking and created several chances that were thwarted by the

The game was over, or so the crowd thought, but so the crowd mought, but this development squad from Fardre had a few more twists to add. They started to gel and were stopping Pencoed regain-ing their advantage at the restart

The visitors create a few gaps and they ran in well-deserved try by Alex PENCOED under-9s Clark. They held Pencoed who were throwing every-thing in attack and who did pick up another score from Tom Bending.

When Ben Humphries went over for Pencoed's 10th try quickly follows: 10th try, quickly followed by Owain Johns and two more from Tom Bending the crowd thought the last few minutes would be a scoring rout for the hosts. Not so. With a tremendous effort Llantwit Fardre went on an attacking phase which lasted almost to the whistle. Taking Pencoed from side to side resulted in an outstanding individual effort from Jack Foxley, who evaded sever al players running the half the length of the pitch to go over at the corner.
